

License for self-archiving

In order to properly formalize all steps of self-archiving, it is VERY IMPORTANT that you read and understand the following rules and terms of this license, before expressing your approval and agreement.

The author states that he/she is the holder of the intellectual property-rights which are the subject of this assignment, and that this submission is his/her original work.

If there are any co-authors or collaborators of such rights, the author states that all co-authors or collaborators give their approval to this assignment, and that the names of all co-authors or collaborators are mentioned in the work.

If exploitation rights have been transferred to third parties, the author states that he/she has the right authorization from the rights-holders for the purpose of this assignment.

In order to provide the maximum dissemination of the work on the Internet, the author grants to the University of Granada the rights of copying, distribution and public communication, including the right for the electronic dissemination, on a royalty-free and non-exclusive basis, for the maximum statutory term and on a universal scope, so the work can be accessed without restriction and free of charge by any Internet user, as long as the work is acknowledged, there are non-commercial purposes, and no derivative works are created out of it. All the actions required for the registration, security and conservation of the work are considered approved.

The author ensures that the commitment acquired by signing this assignment doesn't infringe any industrial or intellectual property rights, right to honor, privacy, image right, or any other rights belonging to a third party.

The author assumes any legal actions that might be brought against the University by third parties whose rights could have been violated due to this assignment.

The author waives any claim against the University of Granada regarding the use of his/her works by users which aren't aligned with the actual legislation.

The author will be appropriately notified of any claim that might be made by a third party regarding the work.

I AGREE

Name:

DNI

Signature

Date:

Department / research group: